Join the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and AmCham MENA for BusinessH2O, a Middle East-focused water innovation summit on October 30th in Washington, DC. This conference will bring together business leaders, policy makers, and water experts to highlight major water projects across the region, public policies to meet the growing demand for water, and best practices in corporate water management.

Water is a vital resource for business and a critical input for economic growth and prosperity. However, the Middle East is the most “water-starved” region in the world and is expected to face huge economic losses from water scarcity. Addressing these challenges requires innovation in water management, strong collaboration with...
